

LOTS OF FUN AHEAD.

Some Unwritten History of the Senatorial Fight in North Dakota.

HILL'S SUCCESS DEATH TO PIERCE.

Hon. Alexander Hughes the Former's Candidate for the West End.

THE BIG RAILROADS IN THE FIGHT.

A Sharp Knife to be Used at Once to Cut the Wind Out of Pierce's Sails.

Some very interesting stories are being told of the Senatorial fight now going on in North Dakota. It is said that not only are several big railroads interested in the outcome, but a number of old political scores are to be paid off in the first Senatorial election from one of the four new States.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.

BISMARCK, N. D., July 12.—There is some interesting history back of the Senatorial fight in North Dakota that has never been printed. Smooth Jim Hill, the Manitoba railroad magnate, has had his fingers in the Senatorial pie already. Hill's success means disaster to smooth Gil Pierce. It comes from an authentic source that Jim Hill's candidate for Senator from the western half of the new State is, or was, no less a personage than the Hon. Alexander Hughes, of Bismarck, ex-United States District Attorney.

The Northern Pacific has also, through its officials, taken a hand in the fight, but whether this road is antagonistic to Jim Hill's man is a question. Eastern railway magnates, too, are interested in the selection of North Dakota's Senator, and considerable Eastern railway capital is being placed in all the populous counties.

THE RAILWAY CANDIDATES.

The political gossip here who claim to have inside information whisper that N. G. Orway is one of the candidates that the railway magnates propose to elect. No one has any information that Gil Pierce is the other, and the fact is, the history already made in the contest would point to the contrary.

It is known that Hughes has for a long time been figuring upon representing North Dakota as one of the first United States Senators. He expected to have practically smooth sailing. He has looked ahead upon Pierce's popularity ever since the latter came from Chicago to assume the Territorial gubernatorial reins, but did not see in him a man who could oppose him with any strength until a few months ago. He was very friendly to Pierce until the latter returned from the East, and people began to credit him with being a Senatorial candidate. He expected Pierce would leave the Territory. When he returned with the announcement that he would live in North Dakota, Hughes is said to have at once looked upon him as an interloper. He finally began to pass him upon the street without nodding.

MORE MISERY FOR HUGHES.

Then, to add to the misery of Mr. Hughes, ex-Governor Ordway arrived at Bismarck with a huge carpet-bag and announced himself a resident of North Dakota. Hughes began to lay plans to wipe up the earth with both Pierce and Ordway. The latter gentleman caught Mr. Hughes at it, and he and Pierce decided between them that they would sit upon Hughes' rear hard. Alex. McKenzie, to whom all yield the palm of being the smoothest politician in the Territory, was in the East just at the time these plots and counterplots were being hatched. Ordway concluded to bring McKenzie to satisfy land himself and Pierce, so he telegraphed for him to return at once. Hughes figured that he, too, needed McKenzie's aid, and he telegraphed, pleading for his return. When he reached Bismarck he was between two very hot fires. But Ordway had done him a very good turn in the past—saved him from political ruin, in fact—so he could not desert Ordway. He made this known to Hughes in as pleasant a manner as possible. Hughes kicked and tried to bulldoze McKenzie.

It is alleged that he told the latter that he had the backing of the big railroads, and advised Alex. that he had better get into his own wagon. McKenzie retorted by pointing out to Hughes the straight and narrow path to hell. This ended the conference. Hughes set out to "bulldoze" McKenzie and Ordway on his own hook. Pierce and Ordway pooled their resources, and in order to aid his friend Ordway, McKenzie has assumed the defensive. McKenzie's action, it is hinted, will use a sharp knife to cut the wind out of Pierce's sails. And all this because Pierce brought a little too much over his victory and because Pierce has no money, and lacks the backing of moneyed men.

It is the purpose of Ordway to run for Senator in the Red river valley. A compact between him and General Allen is certain, and all politicians unite in saying that Ordway will stand by Allen, even though he loses himself. But the plan now is that if Ordway succeeds in the Red river district, he will transfer back to the Missouri slope. Then the man who has been unknowingly acting as Ordway's decoy will be slid into the Ordway-McKenzie tangle and Ordway will jog away with the Senatorship.

AN INTERESTING FEATURE.

A feature in connection with Jim Hill's double in Dakota politics, unknown in Minnesota, is the fact that he now owns controlling interest in the Fargo Daily Argus. The stock is placed at $100,000. Hill nominally owns $50,000 of it.

Another authentic rumor in connection with the Senatorial contest is that Smith Stimmler, the Farmers' Alliance candidate for Governor, will become a Senatorial candidate if he is knocked out for the Governorship by Governor Allen in the case county fight. Those who profess to know say that he will win, too, if he tries for it, even if Ordway is pitted against him. The Alliance will make a gallant fight for Stimmler for Senator, if the Republicans refuse him the gubernatorial nomination. Now the Alliance men are willing to leave the Senatorship alone, if they are given the Governor. This was decided upon at a recent secret meeting of the Alliance leaders, held in Fargo.

The Johnstown People Select Wisely.

The Miss Dix Trust has arranged for a representative to supply sewing machines to the seamstresses at that place who suffered by the flood. The seamstresses had their own selection of the different makes of machines on the market, and in every instance chose the late improved Singer as being the best adapted for all classes of work. The order was accordingly given the Singer Manufacturing Company No. 8 Sixth street for the entire number required.
